GEFWC ILL. TENTH DISTRICT

President's Message

I hope your holiday celebrations were filled with friends and family, and wish you all a Happy and Healthy New Year!

It's hard to believe that I am in the home stretch of my District Presidency. Tempus fugit! We will have a new Executive Committee for the 2012-2014 administration, with our now President-Elect Marty Butler as President. On behalf of the Nominating Committee, I have mailed letters to all of our club presidents soliciting the names of qualified candidates (please refer to "Nominations and Elections" in our Yearbook Bylaws) from their clubs to be presented at our February Board meeting. I am sure that your club president's will appreciate your input!

A reminder to our talented artists: Please mark your calendars for our annual Arts & Crafts Show at the Country Squire on January 25th. See you all then!

The answers given here to the questions presented are based upon the rules contained in Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised. These rules are, in effect, default rules; that is to say, they govern only if there are no contrary provisions in any federal, state, or other law applicable to the society, or in the society's bylaws, or in any special rules of order that the society has adopted.

QUESTION:

1. Is it true that the president can vote only to break a tie?

ANSWER:

No, it is not true that the president can vote only to break a tie. If the president is a member of the voting body, he or she has exactly the same rights and privileges as all other members have, including the right to make motions, to speak in debate, and to vote on all questions. So, in meetings of a small board (where there are not more than about a dozen board members present), and in meetings of a committee, the presiding officer may exercise these rights and privileges as fully as any other member. However, the impartiality required of the presiding officer of any other type of assembly (especially a large one) precludes exercising the rights to make motions or speak in debate while presiding and also requires refraining from voting except (1) when the vote is by ballot, or (2) whenever his or her vote will affect the result. When will the chair's vote affect the result? On a vote that is not by ballot, if a majority vote is required and there is a tie, he or she may vote in the affirmative to cause the motion to prevail. If there is one more in the affirmative than in the negative, the chair can create a tie by voting in the negative to cause the motion to fail. Similarly, if a two-thirds vote is required, he or she may vote either to cause, or to block, attainment of the necessary two-thirds.

Health – Jo Galassini

Q: I throw out leftovers that have been in the refrigerator for a week or so, even if they don't smell bad. My husband says I'm wasting. When should leftovers be tossed?

A: Begin by handling leftovers properly. After meals, promptly refrigerate or freeze leftovers in shallow containers. Avoid having perishable foods at room temperature for more than two hours — or above 90 F for more than one hour. By refrigerating or freezing promptly, you minimize the time food is in the "danger zone" of 40 to 140 F, in which bacteria can quickly multiply.

The Department of Agriculture recommends refrigerated, properly stored leftovers be eaten within four days to minimize risk of food poisoning. If you want to save food longer, freeze it right after the initial meal. Potentially harmful bacteria typically won't change the taste, smell or appearance of food — at least early on. Therefore, you can't determine if food is safe to eat by smelling or tasting it.

Reheat leftovers so that the internal temperature reaches 165 F to kill any bacteria. When using a microwave, stir or rotate food half-way through reheating to eliminate cold spots. Reheat sauces, soups and gravies to boiling. Thoroughly heating leftovers won't necessarily make up for ignoring safe-storage tips, because some types of bacteria produce toxins that aren't destroyed by cooking. □
